KentuckyOne Health™

Our Mission & Vision

KentuckyOne Health

KentuckyOne Health was formed when two major Kentucky health care organizations came together in 2012. KentuckyOne Health combines the Jewish and Catholic heritages of the two former systems – Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's HealthCare and Saint Joseph Health System.

The nonprofit system is committed to improving the health of Kentuckians by integrating medical research, education, technology and health care services wherever patients receive care. KentuckyOne Health has nearly 200 locations including hospitals, physician groups, clinics, primary care centers, specialty institutes and home health agencies, with more than 13,600 employees across the state of Kentucky and southern Indiana.

KentuckyOne Health is the largest health system in Kentucky and has more than 2,325 licensed beds.

Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation

We fuel the organization's drive for excellence by inspiring donors to make a tangible difference through their philanthropic investment in outstanding patient care facilities and services, the education of caregivers, advanced clinical research, and improved access to quality medical care.

Trager Transplant Center Sparks Growth, Saves Lives

The year 2011 was an exciting time for Jewish Hospital and the opening of the Trager Transplant Center – dedicated to one of Louisville's most philanthropic families – was indeed one of the highlights.

Diseases that once were certain to lead to death can now be addressed through organ transplantation – a medical miracle that takes place at Jewish Hospital. In the last 40 years, the Transplant Center at Jewish Hospital performed Kentucky's first adult heart, pancreas, liver and minimally invasive kidney transplants.

The Jewish Hospital transplant team has more experience in transplantation than any other program in the state. And now, thanks to the generosity of the late Bernard and Jean Trager, their children and grandchildren, they also have a new, state-of-the-art lobby, outpatient care and family conference areas. The Center offers patients and their families more comfort, privacy and a better overall experience throughout their care.

Over the years, Jewish Hospital has transplanted more than 3,800 organs, placing it among the top 50 centers in the nation. It also has some of the best patient outcomes in the region in liver transplantation, according to recent data from the Scientific Registry of Transplant Recipients (SRTR), the national database of transplantation statistics.

"Patients in the region can receive excellent care in transplantation right here in Louisville."
-- Michael Marvin, M.D.

Still, there are more lives to be saved. The organ donation waiting list includes an estimated 600 Kentuckians.

"Patients in the region can receive excellent care in transplantation right here in Louisville," said Michael Marvin, M.D., director of transplantation at Jewish Hospital, associate professor of surgery at the University of Louisville. "Our unique team of dedicated surgeons, physicians, nurses, psychiatrists, social workers and transplant coordinators make our program and patient experience unique. The transplant patients of Kentucky now have an even better experience at Jewish Hospital thanks the generosity of the Trager family."

Members of the Trager family cut the ribbon unveiling the newly renovated Trager Transplant Center.

Grant Will Improve Care for Spinal Cord Injury Patients in Four-State Region

The National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research of the U.S. Department of Education awarded researchers at Frazier Rehab Institute and the University of Louisville $2.2 million over five years to establish a Spinal Cord Injury Model System at Frazier Rehab. The model system, which demonstrates a comprehensive continuum of care, will be one of only 14 in the nation.

Through funding provided by the grant, UofL and Frazier Rehab will operate the Frazier Rehab and Neuroscience Spinal Cord Injury Model System (FRNSCIMS). The regional model system will serve Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee, and will enroll at least 30 patients per year for a total of 150 over five years.

The FRNSCIMS will build upon and advance the high quality, comprehensive rehabilitative care to individuals with spinal cord injury and serve as the center of new research. Additionally, the center will rapidly translate research findings into clinical and rehabilitation practice for the direct benefit of spinal cord injury patients.

Daniel E. Graves, Ph.D., is co-principal investigator of the grant along with Darryl L. Kaelin, M.D., chief of the Division of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, UofL Department of Neurosurgery, and medical director, Frazier Rehab Institute.

"The model system is a basic framework for building a research network that can capitalize on the expertise of our current faculty," said Dr. Graves. "It also will enable us to draw in more scientists to work with us, ultimately bettering the lives of people with spinal cord injury."

Lead investigator on the site-specific study is Susan J. Harkema, Ph.D., professor, UofL Department of Neurosurgery; director of research, Frazier Rehab Institute; and director, Christopher & Dana Reeve Foundation's NeuroRecovery Network. Dr. Harkema's research on the regimen of epidural spinal cord stimulation plus extensive locomotor training was recently published in a leading medical journal, The Lancet, and is considered "a significant breakthrough."

The FRNSCIMS will broaden the current scope of care provided by Frazier Rehab and UofL by addressing the comprehensive rehabilitative and reintegration needs of patients with spinal cord injury. Sharing data on patients with the other 13 Spinal Cord Injury Model System centers across the country will help standardize and improve treatment and rehabilitation methods.

Kosair Charities Helps "Kid-ify" Children's Peace Center

For young patients at Children's Peace Center at Our Lady of Peace, the hospital is a safe haven from abuse, neglect, personal trauma, and mental illness. The dedicated health care professionals at the center provide a ray of hope when many children have none, providing the acute care needed to put them on the road to recovery and healing. In fact, many don't know it, but the Children's Peace Center at Our Lady of Peace is the largest and most comprehensive private provider of child/adolescent inpatient psychiatric care in the country.

A warm, child-friendly environment dedicated to therapeutic treatment can make the transition to healing as easy as possible for the young patients at Children's Peace Center. But as the building was designed many years ago to care for adults, providing such an environment requires some renovations and a special touch.

Thanks to the generous support of Kosair Charities, Children's Peace Center will soon start renovations to create a more kid-friendly environment. Over the next 10 years, Kosair Charities will donate $1 million to the Center to assist in this mission.

In recognition of Kosair Charities' generosity, the Center will be renamed the Kosair Charities Children's Peace Center and "The Silent Messenger" statue will be placed on the campus.

The patients are truly Kosair Kids, many of whom are dealing with depression, anxiety, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD), oppositional behavior, bipolar disorder, unresolved grief and trauma, and substance abuse, as well as other psychiatric, chemical dependency, and dual diagnosis disorders. Many of the kids who receive treatment are wards of the state and are referred from residential facilities like Brooklawn and Home of the Innocents and even the emergency department at Kosair Children's Hospital.

It is through the generous support of individuals and organizations that Kosair Charities Children's Peace Center is able to provide vital services for children throughout the state of Kentucky and beyond—services that help vulnerable children and their families to strengthen their relationships and improve their lives.

Simply put, the Center provides hope for healing and a brighter tomorrow. Thanks to Kosair Charities, that hope will come in a new kid-friendly package.

Generosity Funds New Transportation Fleet for the Children at Our Lady of Peace

As a vital service to children in crisis, Kosair Charities Children's Peace Center provides transportation services for those receiving outpatient care, picking them up from home so that they may receive needed treatment at the facility. Kosair Charities Children's Peace Center also transports those receiving inpatient treatment to and from doctor's appointments off-site.

Our Lady of Peace staff with a new 12-passenger van funded by the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels.

But with more than 400 miles to drive daily, maintenance expenses rising, and odometers ticking over 300,000 miles, the center's vehicles needed a serious make-over.

Through the generosity of several organizations, Our Lady of Peace got an entirely new fleet of vans in 2011 to help continue necessary transportation services.

One of the three new vans came when the Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation was selected as a winner in the Toyota 100 Cars for Good initiative, a program that awarded nonprofit organizations a new Toyota. Through an online contest, voters were able to choose the charities they felt most deserving. On July 14, 2011, voters chose Our Lady of Peace to receive a new van.

Through the generosity of two other local organizations, additional vans were purchased to complete the fleet. The WHAS Crusade for Children granted Our Lady of Peace $19,000 toward the purchase of a new vehicle and the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels also helped grow the fleet by donating $18,000.

The value of this service cannot be denied, and the need for reliable vehicles was great. Organizations like Toyota, Crusade for Children and the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels answered the call for the youth at Kosair Charities Children's Peace Center.

HealthCare Horizons Give Team Members Opportunities for Advancement

The Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation's HealthCare Horizons program supports the education and career development of nurses and other health care professionals through a number of endowed scholarships. The program receives support from a variety of individuals, including Jackie Clay, a Foundation Board Member who has been a long-time supporter of the program.

In 2005, Clay created the Milburn Maupin endowed fund to provide an annual scholarship for a Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's HealthCare employee pursuing a degree in nursing. Recently, she endowed a second fund in memory of her mother, Madeline Maupin.

Clay was inspired to create the scholarship funds because she understood the need for more nurses and wanted to provide opportunities for health care workers to advance their careers.

According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, by 2020, the United States will need 2.8 million nurses—1 million short of the projected supply—representing a 36 percent vacancy rate.

"Both of my parents were big in education. Education was their mission," said Clay. "I believe they would feel honored to have their names associated with a scholarship program and to help fulfill a need in our community."

Katlin Snyder, a senior at the University of Louisville School of Nursing, was the recipient of the 2011 Milburn Maupin Award. She entered UofL thinking she wanted to be an engineer, but instead discovered a passion for nursing.

JACKIE CLAY

KATLIN SNYDER

Today, Snyder works part-time as a secretary and nursing assistant in open-heart recovery and the cardiac ICU at Jewish Hospital. She hopes to find a nursing position in an intensive care unit or emergency department upon graduation in May 2012.

"When I received the news that I was selected, it was as if a huge burden had been lifted."
-- Katlin Snyder

"Receiving the Milburn Maupin scholarship has really changed my senior year," said Snyder. "I knew I wouldn't be able to continue working full-time and complete the large number of clinical hours required to earn my nursing degree. When I received the news that I was selected, it was as if a huge burden had been lifted."

Doctors' Ball Honors Remarkable Health Care and Community Leaders

When you think of the Doctors' Ball, your mind may drift to the outstanding medical professionals in the community who are honored at the annual gala hosted by the Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation. However, the Doctors' Ball also honors individuals who have made an outstanding contribution to the city with the award for Community Leaders of the Year.

At this year's Doctors' Ball, which took place on October 29, 2011, community champions Don and Libby Parkinson were honored for their years of dedicated community service. Whitehall, Frazier Rehab Institute, The Kentucky Opera, KET, the Dot Patterson Stroke Center at Jewish Hospital, Farmington, Heuser Hearing Institute and Dr. O'tayo Lalude's West End diabetes clinic are among the multitude of organizations that have benefited from Don and Libby Parkinson's behind-the-scenes commitment to making Louisville a better place to live.

Libby has made a near 30-year career out of raising money for community organizations. Some of the events she's chaired or co-chaired include the Bourbon Ball, Derby Museum Gala, Kentucky Center's 20th Anniversary Gala, and the Bolla Hardscuffle Steeplechase.

Don served two decades as a member of the Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation Board of Directors. During his six years as the board chair, the foundation raised more than $45 million.

"Those dollars have touched the lives of thousands of people in this community through initiatives ranging from the modernization of Frazier Rehab Institute to diabetes outreach clinics for the medically underserved in Louisville's West End and Shelbyville," said David Laird, president and CEO of Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's HealthCare.

As is customary, a number of Louisville's most remarkable medical leaders were also recognized for their contributions at the event. The 2011 honorees included:

David J. Richardson, M.D.
Ephraim McDowell Physician of the Year

Howard Bracco, M.D.
Excellence in Mental Health

Sandra Brooks, M.D.
Excellence in Community Service

Mark Slaughter, M.D.
Excellence in Education

Kathy Bertolone, R.N., M.S.N., C.F.N.P.
Excellence in International Humanitarian Service
Excellence in Nursing

These honorees embody the sprit of the Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation through their dedication to providing the highest quality patient care facilities and services, educating health caregivers, advancing cutting edge clinical research, and providing improved access to quality medical care for all Kentuckians.

Proceeds from the Doctors' Ball benefit the Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation.

Upstream to Equity Program Works to Bridge the Divide in Health Care

When you study Kentucky's mortality records, you'll find startling facts like this one:

If you live in Louisville's California neighborhood just west of downtown, your life expectancy is just 68 years, about 10 years less than those living in northeastern Jefferson County.

This statistic is a stark illustration of the marked difference in health status experienced by people who are born, live, work and age in conditions that detract from health. These "social determinants" of health include poverty, low socioeconomic status and lack of access to care—and are often drawn along racial and ethnic lines.

A number of national organizations have called on health care providers to proactively work to reduce these disparities in health. Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation is doing just that with the help of more than $465,000 from Catholic Health Initiatives.

"Upstream to Equity" was established in 2009 as a partnership with the residents of challenged neighborhoods in the city's urban core and the Center for Health Equity, an initiative established by the Louisville Metro Department of Public Health & Wellness to address the root causes of health disparities. The initiative is built on the premise that the community must be engaged as equal partners to produce change that will make healthy choices available to all and where all populations can thrive.

The program is focused on addressing the root causes of poor health, and the multi-year effort hopes to:

- Improve the health status for residents in the California, Shelby Park, Phoenix Hill and Smoketown neighborhoods.
- Improve delivery of equitable, culturally competent care that positively impacts clinical quality.

"Upstream to Equity" answers the call to ensure that all people have access to adequate health care, and that particular attention is given to the needs of the poor, the uninsured and the underinsured.

Thank You

Donors made a real difference in 2011. The Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation pays tribute to all the individuals, companies and foundations that make a tangible difference through their philanthropic investment in outstanding patient care facilities and services, the education of health caregivers, advanced clinical research and improved access to quality medical care.

Legacy Gift Makes An Enduring Difference

Like many people, Roger Prizant had a deep sense of gratitude for the lifesaving care he received at Jewish Hospital. He knew firsthand the miracle of modern medicine as the recipient of a ventricular assist device and heart transplant in the 1990s.

ROGER M. PRIZANT

Prizant never forgot the second chance at life that he received. In fact, he made sure it would never be forgotten by establishing the Roger M. Prizant Charitable Lead Annuity Trust to support research at the Cardiovascular Innovation Institution into the causes and management of end-stage heart disease. The gift of $1.5 million to the Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation became a reality at Prizant's passing in 2009 at the age of 66.

"The Foundation is honored to be the recipient of this very generous donation by the Prizant family. I am sure this designation of research at the CII will save the lives of others with their leading research in cardiovascular and thoracic disease," said Sherri Craig, vice president, Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation. She said that to honor his generosity, the Roger M. Prizant Administrative Offices were dedicated at the CII last October.

"This generous gift, through Mr. Prizant's estate, will help us to continue to develop critically needed support for heart failure patients," said Stuart Williams, Ph.D., executive and scientific director of CII, a joint venture of Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's HealthCare and the University of Louisville.

Prizant was a graduate of the University of Louisville Law School, and a member of The Temple, the Louisville Bar Association, and the Kentucky Bar Association. He practiced real estate law for many years. In 1985, he formed Mesa Foods which manufactured Chi Chi's tortilla and corn chips as well as many other products, and had several hundred employees. After retiring from Mesa Foods, he became an owner of several Fire Fresh Restaurants.

Donors like Prizant who wish to make a legacy gift to the Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's Foundation are honored as members of our Cornerstone Society, denoted by a pillar in this annual report and the donor wall at Jewish Hospital. "We're honored by these thoughtful gifts, often made when people complete their estate planning," said Craig. "They are the ultimate act of generosity, often the culmination of a lifetime of giving to support our physicians, staff, and facilities."
